Air Design

Air Design is a multidisciplinary study where design integrates its various skills and specialisations in order to achieve an innovative product or service. It has no preset boundaries; it goes as far as design does. The method lies in the perfect expression and integration of knowledge and design technologies that develop, evolve and resume so getting to innovative and non-replicable solutions.

Air Design is a creative team sharing skills and professionalism, which gets contaminated by sharing different knowledge in the field of design while working together on one concept.
